Alutiiq wins National Safety Council awards for work on construction projects at military bases in Hawaii, Texas and North Carolina

ANCHORAGE, AK –Alutiiq recently received four National Safety Council Awards for excellence in project safety on construction military projects in Hawaii, Texas and North Carolina.

The National Safety Council is the nation’s largest and oldest organization dedicated to saving lives by preventing injuries and deaths. Less than 2 percent of the Council’s 53,000 members received awards.

Alutiiq’s Hawaii MATOC received the National Safety Council Safety Leadership Award. To qualify for this award a company, unit and/or facility must have achieved a minimum of five consecutive “perfect record” years operating without incurring occupational injury or illness to an employee or subcontractor. The Hawaii project was overseen by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Honolulu District.

To win a Perfect Record Award, a project must have 12 consecutive months without an occupational injury or illness to an employee or subcontractor and a minimum of 10,000 employee hours worked during the time period. Three Alutiiq Construction projects received the Perfect Record Award in 2011:

- Fort Bragg Single Award Task Order Contract (SATOC), which was overseen by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Savannah District. Fort Bragg is located near Fayetteville, N.C.
- Fort Bliss-Patriot Battalion Company Operation Facilities (COF), which was overseen by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Galveston District. Fort Bliss is located in El Paso, Texas.
- Fort Hood Multiple Award Task Order Contract (MATOC), which was overseen by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Galveston District. Fort Hood is located in Killeen, Texas.

“Alutiiq is honored to receive these awards, which are an affirmation of our commitment to safe and exemplary work by our dedicated employees and highly skilled contractors,” said Dick Hobbs, Alutiiq’s President and CEO.

Alutiiq is dedicated to delivering cost-effective, quality service and solutions to its customers. Alutiiq has operations worldwide, from Prudhoe Bay on Alaska's North Slope to Japan.
